

THE RAPPAPORT SPEAKER SERIES PRESENTS:

LOST TRUST

Why America Lost Faith in Journalism and Academia and How to Fix It

Over recent decades, Americans have lost trust in higher education and journalism. A 2023 Gallup poll found that only 36 percent of Americans have confidence in higher education, while only 31% expressed confidence in the media. Join bestselling author, NYT journalist, and Duke Professor Frank Bruni for an inside perspective on why Americans' trust in academia and journalism has eroded and how it can be repaired.

AUTHOR, FRANK BRUNI is a prominent journalist and bestselling author who served as a staff writer at the New York Times for over 25 years. During that time, he worked as a White House correspondent, the Rome bureau chief, the paper's chief restaurant critic, and op-ed columnist—a role he maintained for 10 years that brought him national renown. Bruni is the author of five New York Times bestsellers, including, most recently, The Age of Grievance, a deep dive into why Americans are so angry and what we can do about it. In July 2021, he became a full professor at Duke University, teaching media-oriented classes at the Sanford School of Public Policy.
